Introduction

Welcome to the Martinus Centre in Klint!

The Martinus Centre, Klint – a centre for courses and holidays – is in the middle of the county of Odsherred's beautiful countryside. Here you can enjoy the centre's friendly atmosphere, the peace and quiet of the countryside and the company of other participants while you immerse yourself in the spiritual world picture of the Danish writer Martinus.

The Martinus Centre, Klint nestles in a peaceful area of scenic beauty by the sea near the village of Klint to the northwest of Nykøbing Sjælland. Here in 1935 Martinus founded Denmark's first holiday camp, which has developed over the years to become a modern centre for courses and holidays. The Centre has facilities for courses, a lecture hall, café, restaurant, camping site and charming holiday homes including summer cottages and pavilions. All of this – and the beautiful natural surroundings – form the cosy, physical framework for your stay in Klint.

A completely open study programme

Throughout the year the Martinus Centre, Klint offers a variety of study programmes about Martinus's writings and cosmic analyses. Everyone is welcome regardless of background or religious persuasion. Martinus himself encouraged people to take from his cosmology what they could use and leave the rest.

Interest in Martinus's world picture is neither a religion nor a denomination, and there are no particular rules for living or anything else that you have to adhere to in order to take part in and enjoy a stay at the Martinus Centre, Klint.

Social life

The Martinus Centre, Klint has a very open and loving atmosphere. There are plenty of opportunities to take part in inspiring conversations with other guests – for example, in the café or restaurant – while the surrounding countryside tempts participants to go for walks with others or to reflect quietly.

In this catalogue you will find the scheduled programme for courses in English in 2020. There are plenty of activities to choose between for newcomers to Martinus's world picture as well as for those who are already familiar with it – including lectures, study groups and symbol explanations. # Meals in Klint

Café Klint

The café at the Martinus Centre, Klint is plant-based and open for visitors during the summer season.

Our café is also open when there are courses, lectures and other arrangements throughout the year. We serve hot and cold organic drinks, fruit, snacks and cakes. On days when there are courses and on other special occasions you can also buy lunchtime sandwiches, cakes and so on produced by the restaurant's kitchen.

The Restaurant "Terrassen"

At the Martinus Centre, Klint the meals are most often not included in the price of courses and other residencies, but in the Restaurant "Terrassen" (The Terrace) you can buy delicious plant-based meals and eat them in the restaurant's warm and relaxed atmosphere.

We use predominantly fresh, organic and biodynamic produce and prepare the food from scratch. The food is plant-based, reflecting Martinus's thoughts about love for animals, our own heath and the common responsibility we have for the planet.

Learn about Martinus in many ways

At the Martinus Centre, Klint interest in Martinus's world picture is at the centre of most of our activities. There are many ways of taking part, and everyone is welcome.

There are many ways of studying Martinus – and they are all equally good. Some people just drop in on the centre's café for a cup of coffee and to hear a lecture, while others study Martinus's spiritually scientific analyses in depth for weeks or years at a time. In addition, there is accommodation for retreat guests during the spring and autumn.

At the Martinus Centre, Klint we have activities for all tastes in the Scandinavian languages all the year round. Everyone is welcome. Many of our activities takes place during the summer half of the year, not least during the school holidays from the end of June to mid-August. For the moment the centre's activities in English take place during the two International Weeks at the end of our summer season. These activities include:

Lectures:

During our International Weeks we have daily morning lectures in the Scandinavian languages. These are simultaneously translated into English. There are evening lectures in English.

Study groups:

The International Courses during the summer offer the possibility for newcomers and more experienced students to join introductory study groups and more in-depth study groups based on Martinus's books and articles.

Symbol explanations:

Saturday 25th July – Friday 31st July

THEME: The Meaning of Life

Finding meaning in life is of vital significance for our well-being. The meaning can, however, temporarily be found in work family life or interests. But when we are challenged, whether it be in our private lives, in society or in the world situation, it is a source of courage and inner strength to see a meaning in life itself and not least in suffering. In the world picture Martinus describes for us, everything has a meaning – including the great upheavals that are currently taking place in local society as well as globally.

Saturday 1st August – Friday 7th August

THEME: From Mysticism to Spiritual Science

In many religious and philosophical traditions there have been mystical schools where people have sought psychic ways of attaining oneness with the divine. These groups have often been exclusive and secret. Martinus thinks that the present and future way to initiation and the experience of unity goes through an evolution of a logical and loving way of being in everyday life. The guidance of spiritual science is completely open and freely available to all those who are interested in it.

About Martinus

Martinus and His Works

In the little town of Sindal in northern Jutland the Danish writer Martinus (1890-1981) was born out of wedlock to the housekeeper of Kristiansminde, a large farm, and grew up as a foster child of his mother's brother and his wife. They had a large family, but they took loving care of yet another child.

Even as a child Martinus felt a close, personal relationship to God. But his God was loving – not strict and punitive, as the local, evangelical priest had taught him. He thus felt a strong connection to a spiritual providence but could not come to terms with the interpretation of Christianity of that time.

A new world picture was born

In his youth Martinus was trained as a dairyman and worked for a number of years in various dairies around the country. In 1917 he moved to Copenhagen where he, among other things, got an office job at a dairy called Enheden. But in 1921 something epoch-making happened for the, at that time, 30-year-old man. He had an extensive spiritual experience that gave him a permanent intuitive access to life's eternal dimension. This changed the course of his life for ever.

The experience enabled him to describe a new, spiritual world picture, which he spent the rest of his life communicating. Martinus's spiritually scientific world picture expresses both a clear and law-bound connection between the physical and the spiritual world and a positive, loving vision of the evolution and future of the whole of mankind – a completely optimistic view of life.

Great interest in Martinus

During the following decades Martinus worked untiringly and wrote, among other things, a series of books, of which his main work is Livets Bog (The Book of Life). Martinus called his collected works The Third Testament. A continually widening circle of enthusiasts contributed both practically and financially to disseminating his works at home and abroad. This support made it possible to establish the Martinus Institute in Frederiksberg, Copenhagen and the Martinus Centre, Klint in the county of Odsherred, Denmark.

Indefatigably Martinus continued his modest and hard-working life in the service of spiritual science – always in close collaboration with his many friends and other Martinus enthusiasts. Today Martinus's works are translated into over 20 languages and are studied in depth by thousands of people the world over. Before his death in 1981 Martinus handed over his life's work to a fund, which still – with the help of a few employees and a great number of volunteers – keeps his world picture and its dissemination alive.

Volunteering

Voluntary, unpaid work plays an important role at the Martinus Centre, Klint. As a volunteer you work with tasks you yourself have chosen. You also get a co-worker discount and lots of time to enjoy being part of a unique and living meeting place.

A particular characteristic of the Martinus Centre, Klint is that most of the work is done by voluntary, unpaid co-workers. There are always lots of jobs that need to be done, for example, teaching, administration, cleaning, cooking, gardening and maintenance. There is something for all tastes and levels of skill, and our co-workers are just as varied as their tasks.

You can have a major say in the work you do

As a volunteer you have a major say in which tasks you work on. At the same time, you contribute to creating the quite special atmosphere and loving atmosphere that characterises the centre.

At the centre we all work so as to give one another – course participants, guests and co-workers – a pleasant, enriching experience. In this way we all take part in making the Martinus Centre, Klint the very special course centre that it is.
